

A short film about power grid safety

"Grid Down, Power Up" exposes vulnerabilities in our nation's patchwork of more than 3,000 utility companies, which aren't regulated to protect against outside threats such as malware.

Even though it's not a traditional narrative film, this National Geographic-produced docudrama presents a fictionalized scenario of a nationwide blackout caused by a cyber attack on ...

Watch educational videos and animations that bring electricity and safety to life. Perfect for visual learners and classroom engagement.

The program shows how a collapse of the power grid could be deadly -- and lead to life-threatening shortages of heat, food, and water if protective measures aren't taken.

Imagine a world where the flick of a switch doesn't bring light, where the hum of electricity is replaced by an eerie silence. This collection of disaster films delves into the terrifying scenarios ...

In an age where dependency on electricity is at its peak, "Grid Down, Power Up" shines a spotlight on the essential truths we must confront. Our thought-provoking exploration will leave you captivated, and ...

The film outlines the risk and consequences of the US power grid going ...

From hospitals and schools to transportation and communication, our world grinds to a halt without power. Grid Down, Power Up exposes the vulnerabilities of our power grids and raises critical ...

*Navigating the Live Grid*In dense urban environments worldwide, the electrical infrastructure forms a nervous system that cannot be switched off for long....

In Tice's movie, he exposes the vulnerability of the United States power grid and the seriousness of this threat to the United States security.

The film outlines the risk and consequences of the US power grid going down, leaving the nation without electricity for an extended period of time. It is explained how we became this vulnerable, and how we ...

A short film about power grid safety

Web: <https://rocksteadyfloors.co.za>

